QUALITY POLICY

"Quality higher education is most important thing we can do for future generations" - Ron Lewis

A quality education is a sine qua non for an educational institute that focuses on the whole persona of the student — the social, emotional, mental, physical, and cognitive development of each student regardless of gender, race, ethnicity, socio-economic status, or geographic location; it prepares the student for life, not just for a profession. We, at INNOVATIVE, pay particular attention to the key important factors in the quality of education, viz., pre-conditioning of pupils, learning environment, educational content, management of pace and depth of learning, quality dissemination by faculty, appropriate mesh of theoretical curricula with skills development and emotive preparation for transition to professional life.

HOW ARE WE DIFFERENT

"Strength lies in differences not in similarities" - Stephen Covey

The social and economic development of a country is crucially dependent upon commerce and business sector which majority contributes to the national GDP. The business enterprises and the manufacturing/service industry together produce / supply goods / products and services which, in turn, creates employment opportunities. These days, all business enterprises are operating in a fast changing world due to rapid technological and organization-processes advancements. The pace at which corporate-world is expanding, acquiring and consolidating, is an indicator of the changing scenario; critical issues like fit-feeding, corporate social-responsibility etc., on the other hand, are gaining impetus, thus making the adaptations and innovations more challenging. These dynamics of change call for some basic changes in the professional educational system. Are professional-skills alone good enough for the success in corporate sector? Moreover, globalization in a borderless economic world, creates challenges of varied professional skills relevant to societal needs, thus necessitating a relook at the way professional education and skills-training is imparted..... a philosophy integrated in our approach to professional education which makes us stand apart from run-of-the-mill law schools spawning the country!

OUR APPROACH TO PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION

"Stay committed to your goals but stay flexible in your approach"

- Tony Robbins

Admittedly, there is no single best approach to professional development; rather, it is preferable for multiple approaches to be integrated with one another for addressing the complex and dynamic characteristics of specific program contents and learner needs. Success rests on finding the optimal combination of approaches for different situations. Often, Lectures/Presentations (followed by Workshops) may be the first step in the professional development process, particularly if the purpose is to raise awareness among participants regarding new ideas/strategies.

A workshop is a suitable vehicle for introducing practitioners to other approaches to professional development, or it may refine skills or, for further exploring other concepts; participants may, for instance, want to practice a new skill introduced in the workshop and choose to follow up with the Observation/ Feedback approach, or they wish to explore a newly introduced concept through the Inquiry/Research approach. We, therefore, attempt to discuss needs assessments and to collaboratively plan program and skill-development activities.

In overall structuring of the programs, we give due weightage to critical factors like personality-development, oral/written communication and inter-personal skills in curricula while, at the same time, addressing the latest trends and emerging developments in the respective professional fields. We expect our students to stand out in the crowd and be counted for what they received what they are capable of.

SIMULATION MODULE

MOOT COURT

"A Moot is a faux theatre of war that trains you for the real-life cut and thrust of the Court" - Anonymous

We have a well appointed Moot Court complete with a reality-like façade. Through simulation sessions and national/inter-collegiate competitions the students are exposed to the qualitative atmosphere of the Courts besides honing their skills in law-research, advocacy and physical pleading. Usually, the Moot Court proceedings, hypothetically simulate a legal case (with complete trappings of a formal law-suit) where the students present their arguments based on applicable law after due research. Moot Court helps the students of law in practical legal training to build analytical reasoning, legal aptitude, exploit the team-resources and above all, make them responsive and ready to take up law-practice after completion of their degree course.

While we currently live in an extraordinary world and thousands of people are losing their employment as a result of the COVID outbreak perplexing many students as to the career they should take to ensure their success in such circumstances, Law remains one field that is recession-proof and the demand for attorneys is expected to continue to rise in the future. With the economic downturn, medical crises, police reforms, health-care disparities, and the fragility of small enterprises, competent legal aid will be required in the coming years keeping lawyers busy in the coming decade. The phenomenal prospects for law-graduates have multiplied, as a range of following self-employed, or, competitive-placement avenues have become available:

Advocates, Judicial Officers, Jurists, Administrative Officers, Public Prosecutors, Law Officers / Advisors in Government, semi-government and autonomous bodies, PSUs, Banks, MNCs, Military (JAG Branch), LPOs, Medico-legal Services, Legal Experts in Criminology, Forensics, Civil Law, Criminal Law, Labour Law, Corporate Law, IP Law, IT/Cyber Law, Co-operative Law, Human Rights etc.

That humans have to continually adapt to change, education being most appropriate tool to cope with the 'impact-of-change' in order to sustain continual progress of a society which can only be ensured through education, no profession should be taken up merely as a career We, at INNOVATIVE, therefore, intend to produce future change-agents through creation of ideal ambience for learning, research, interaction, debate and growth by facilitating the students to inherit value-systems as agile thinkers for creative innovation.

QUALITY POLICY

"Quality higher education is most important thing we can do for future generations" - Ron Lewis

A quality education is a mission for an educational institute that focuses on the whole persons of the student — the social, emotional, mental, physical, and cognitive development of each student regardless of gender, race, ethnicity, socio-economic status, or geographic location; it prepares the student for life, not just for a profession. We, at INNOVATIVE, pay particular attention to the key important factors in the quality of education, viz., pre-conditioning of pupils, learning environment, educational content, management of pace and depth of learning, quality dissemination by faculty, appropriate mesh of theoretical curricula with skills development and emotive preparation for transition to professional life.

HOW ARE WE DIFFERENT

"Strength lies in differences not in similarities" - Stephen Covey

The social and economic development of a country is critically dependent upon commerce and business sector which majority contributes to the national GDP. The business enterprises and the manufacturing/service industry together produce / supply goods / products and services which, in turn, creates employment opportunities. These days, all business enterprises are operating in a fast changing world due to rapid technological and organization-processes advancements. The pace at which corporate-world is expanding, acquiring and consolidating, is an indicator of the changing scenario; critical issues like fair-dealing, corporate social-responsibility, etc., on the other hand, are gaining impetus, thus making the adaptations and innovations more challenging. These dynamics of change call for some basic changes in the professional education system: Are professional skills alone good enough for the success in corporate sector? Moreover, globalization in a borderless economic world, creates challenges of varied professional skills relevant to societal needs, thus necessitating a relook at the way professional education and skills-training is imparted... a philosophy integrated in our approach to professional education which makes us stand apart from run-of-the-mill law schools spanning the country!

OUR APPROACH TO PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION

"Stay committed to your goals but stay flexible in your approach"

- Tony Robbins

Admittedly, there is no single best approach to professional development; rather, it is preferable for multiple approaches to be integrated with one another for addressing the complex and dynamic characteristics of specific program contents and learner needs. Success rests on finding the optimal combination of approaches for different situations. Often, Lectures/Presentations (followed by Workshops) may be the first step in the professional development process, particularly if the purpose is to raise awareness among participants regarding new ideas or strategies.

A workshop is a ultimate vehicle for introducing practitioners to other approaches to professional development, or it may refine skills or, for further exploring other concepts, participants may, for instance, want to practice a new skill introduced in the workshop and choose to follow up with the Observation/Feedback approach, or they wish to explore a newly introduced concept through the Inquiry/Research approach. We, therefore, attempt to discuss needs assessments and to collaboratively plan program and skill-development activities.

In overall structuring of the programs, we give due weightage to critical factors like personality-development, oral/written communication and inter-personal skills in curriculum while, at the same time, addressing the latest trends and emerging developments in the respective professional fields. We expect our students to stand out in the crowd and be counted for what they are and what they are capable of.

SIMULATION MODULE

MOOT COURT

"A Moot is a faux theatre of war that trains you for the real-life cut and thrust of the Court" - Anonymous

We have a well appointed Moot Court complete with a reality-like façade. Through simulation sessions and national inter-collegiate competitions the students are exposed to the qualitative atmosphere of the Courts besides honing their skills in law-research, advocacy and physical pleading. Usually, the Moot Court proceedings, hypothetically simulate a legal case (with complete trappings of a formal law-suit) where the students present their arguments based on applicable law after due research. Moot Court helps the students of law in practical legal training to build analytical reasoning, legal aptitude, exploit the team-resources and above all, make them responsive and ready to take up law-practice after completion of their degree course.

CAREER PROSPECTS

"Choose a job you love, and you will never have to work a day in your life" - Confucius.

The legal profession in India has witnessed numerous changes over the years. Lawyers are no longer confined to the courtrooms where they represent their clients. Legal graduates today work in a variety of settings, including corporations, IT firms, administrative services, law firms, and corporate houses. While we currently live in an extraordinary world and thousands of people are losing their employment as a result of the COVID outbreak perplexing many students as to the career they should take to ensure their success in such circumstances, Law remains one field that is recession-proof and the demand for attorneys is expected to continue to rise in the future. With the economic downturn, medical crises, police reforms, health-care disparities, and the fragility of small enterprises, competent legal aid will be required in the coming years keeping lawyers busy in the coming decade. The phenomenal prospects for law-graduates have fructified, as a range of following (self-employed, or competitive-placement) avenues have become available - Advocates, Judicial Officers, Jurists, Administrative Officers, Public Prosecutors, Law Officers, Advisors in Government, semi-government and autonomous bodies, PSUs, Banks, MNCs, Military (JAG Branch), LPOs, Medico-legal Services, Legal Experts in Criminology, Forensics, Civil Law, Criminal Law, Labour Law, Corporate Law, IP Law, IT/Cyber Law, Co-operative Law, Human Rights etc.

HOW ARE WE DIFFERENT

The social and economic development of a country is crucially dependent upon business enterprises as they contribute to the national income. The business houses, and industries and those who supply products and services also create employment for the people. These enterprises are operating in a fast changing world with technology, and new business processes getting introduced at a very fast pace. The speed at which many of the corporates are expanding, acquiring and consolidating, is an indicator of the changing scenario. Critical issues like fair dealing, corporate social responsibility etc. on the other hand are gaining momentum, thus making the changes and innovations more challenging. The dynamics of change calls for some basic changes in the professional educational system.

Are professional skills alone good enough for the success in corporate sector?

The era of globalizations is making products and services move in a border less economic world, creating business challenges which were not there earlier. Today's professional require more demanding skills which are highly relevant to the customer's needs.

OUR APPROACH TO PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION

This calls for a unique training of the aspiring professionals not only in terms of skills, but also to develop them to become good citizens who are culturally adaptable to the global environment without sacrificing the basic values of life. The Academic curriculum in professional education needs to adapt to the professional standards being demanded today from the Managers of enterprises. Professional education must imbibe self confidence to the trainees and the future professionals. As the industry needs are changing every day the course curriculum should be adapted to these changes. The syllabus also has to include a lot of soft skills apart from professional knowledge.

The need is to train the students with an overall personality and not just stop with developing professional skills so as to enable them to easily adapt to the corporate world which they have to finally enter. We also realize the need for students to be well informed about highly contemporary issues that are confronting and affecting the world environment. Students should value culture and ethics and be respectable citizens rather than just professionals.

We give due weightage to factors like personality development, communication and interpersonal skills in curriculum while addressing the latest trends and developments in the respective professional arena. We want our students to stand out in the crowd and be respected for what they are and what they are capable of. A good loading of case studies in the curriculum shall be provided for, since the case study method involves a great deal of interaction and deliberation which makes learning easy and effective.

Webinar (13th June, 2021)

Innovative Institute of Law Organized Webinar on "Challenges and Concern in Citizenship Amendment Act 2019". The Inaugural speech was delivered by Ms. Sheetal Sharma. Our two dynamic speakers Adv. Saloni Bahl and Mr. Abhilash Arun Sapre, advocated the relevancy and importance of CAA for India. They argued that social movements have struggled to weave difference into the notion of equality that informs the abstract notion of citizenship. They suggested that the universalism of citizenship can be made effective by taking into account the specific needs of people belonging to groups that are disadvantaged by the generalised application of common or uniform frameworks/standards of citizenship. Their constant theme was that the Constitution recognises differentiated citizenship so that members of specific ethnic, linguistic, racial and religious groups are incorporated into citizenship not only as individuals but also through their groups so their rights depend upon their group membership. Vote of Thanks was delivered by Dr Akhilesh Kumar Pandey HOD Innovative Institute of Law.

A visit to Luksar Jail was organised in the month of July. The purpose was to study the life of a prisoner. It was told by the guard that the population in the prison was one thousand and seven hundred men, and seventy women. Most of them were there for crimes of passion.

The windows were high and without bars. There were workshop rooms where the prisoners are engaged in shoe making and furniture making and painting, DLSA and the Jailor authorities informed the students and staff of Innovative Institute of Law about the Jail System and Jail Manual.

HOW ARE WE DIFFERENT

The social and economic development of a country is crucially dependent upon business enterprises as they contribute to the national income. The business houses, and industries and those who supply products and services also create employment for the people. These enterprises are operating in a fast changing world with technology, and new business processes getting introduced at a very fast pace. the speed at which many of the corporates are expanding, acquiring and consolidating, is an indicator of the changing scenario. Critical issues like fair dealing, corporate social responsibility etc. on the other hand are gaining momentum, thus making the changes and innovations more challenging. The dynamics of change calls for some basic changes in the professional educational system.

Are professional skills alone good enough for the success in corporate sector?

The era of globalizations is making products and service move in a border less economic world, creating business challenges which were not there earlier. Today's professional require more demanding skills which are highly relevant to the customer's needs.

OUR APPROACH TO PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION

This calls for a unique training of the aspiring professionals not only in terms of skills, but also to develop them to become good citizens who are culturally adaptable to the global environment without sacrificing the basic values of life. The Academic curriculum in professional education needs to adapt to the professional standards being demanded today from the Managers of enterprises. Professional education must imbibe self confidence to the trainees and the future professionals. As the industry needs are changing every day the course curriculum should be adapted to these changes. The syllabus also has to include a lot of soft skills apart from professional knowledge.

The need is to train the students with an overall personality and not just stop with developing professional skills so as to enable them to easily adapt to the corporate world which they have to finally enter. We also realize the need for students to be well informed about highly contemporary issues that are confronting and affecting the world environment. Students should value culture and ethics and be respectable citizens rather than just professionals.

We give due weightage to factors like personality development, communication and interpersonal skills in curriculum while addressing the latest trends and developments in the respective professional arena. We want our students to stand out in the crowd and be respected for what they are and what they are capable of. A good loading of case studies in the curriculum shall be provided for, since the case study method involves a great deal of interaction and deliberation which makes learning easy and effective.
